DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

- I. Claims 1-6, drawn to a reflective liquid crystal display comprising a specific birefringence difference product and a liquid crystal layer with a specific twist angle.
- II. Claims 7-19, drawn to a reflective liquid crystal display, wherein incoming circularly polarized light is linearly polarized at a surface of the first substrate in a plurality of directions representative of the plurality of wavelengths of natural light.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

No claim appears generic.

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features because the converting circularly polarized light into linearly polarized light in a plurality of directions representative of the wavelengths of natural light does not naturally follow from merely having a specific twist angle or birefringence difference product.
